J. FLANNERY, PITTSBURG MAN, KILLS HIS WIFE

Well-Known Business Man As-sorts to Police It Was Accidental.

HELD FOR MURDER

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 13.—J. Flannery, a prominent business man, who shortly after last midnight surrendered to the police after his wife, Mrs. Katherine Flannery, had been shot to death in her home, was today committed to jail charged by the coroner with murder. He was held without bail pending the inquest.

Flannery declared the shooting was accidental. According to the story he told police, he and his wife occupied separate rooms because of the illness their children. He got home late and shortly after retiring thought he heard a burglar in the house. He got a pistol and called to his wife. He received no answer, the police said he declared, and when he saw a shadowy form in the doorway fired, thinking it was the intruder. Mrs. Flannery was hit through the body and died almost instantly.

Flannery was questioned by John Shoun, superintendent of police, in the morning and later by the coroner. The Flannerys had been married seven years and had two children. Mrs. Flannery, mother of the dead woman, when questioned concerning the relations between her daughter and Flannery, said that some time ago Mrs. Flannery contemplated divorce proceedings because of what Mrs. Flannery termed "his treatment of her."

In his statement to the coroner today Flannery told the same story. It is stated, that he told the police after he summoned them to his home, he persisted that the shooting was accidental and that he fired because he thought the form he saw was that of an intruder in his home.

City's Power Over Firemen's Relief Fund Issue Again

HARRISBURG, Feb. 13.—The question of the rights of a city or borough council to divert money received from a state treasury as proceeds of the state tax on fire insurance premiums on firemen's relief to police pension funds may be raised here within a short time owing to inquiries which have come from several cities. In position heretofore held has been that the money must go to firemen's organizations for relief. In some cases the police and firemen's funds are jointly administered.

About $700,000 remains to be paid municipalities for last year's account and this will be taken from the general fund of the state treasury. In payments now being made to the treasury by insurance companies on account of this tax will be held separate and not be used for wiping out the balance due. Firemen's organizations are again being heard from about the payments.

It is probable the next legislature will have to deal with the problem of the state fire insurance fund. It should be wiped out there is now a way to replenish it except by an act of the legislature and owing to conditions which had to be made fund is less than at this time last year. Until next year the fund was used to pay the expenses of the fire insurance in part.

Bonus Will Not Be Available Until 1925 or Later

HARRISBURG, Feb. 13.—Formalities to all veterans of the World War that no applications for the soldiers' bonus will be sent out until the necessary necessary legislation providing the money, and that letters will be kept on file has been authorized all inquiries by the State Soldiers' Fund Commission.

Adjutant General Frank D. Bear issued the letters in his official capacity. The letters will call attention to the fact that the resolution, admitting the $26,000,000 loan amendment to the Constitution to the people, was last year, and that it was passed by a Legislature in 1923, to be voted upon by the people in 1924 and that the resolution of 1925 will have to pass a enabling legislation for sale of the bonus.

The organization of the Bonus Commission, which is to merely provide a men in event of the bonus being authorized, has caused numerous letters to come to the State Capitol.

Somerset's Share of Gas Tax. During the four month period from September 1 to December 31 the gas tax collected in Somerset county amounted to $8,714.65, one-half of which was retained by the county, the other half remitted to the state treasury.

BUSY WEEK AHEAD IN REVIVAL AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Evangelist Buckner Will Speak Tonight on "The Supremacy of Christ."

FOUR MAKE CONFESSION

Four confessions to date, three of them Sunday morning, have marked the evangelistic services in the First Christian Church, being conducted by Rev. C. C. Buckner of Harrisburg. Large congregations attended both services on Sunday while in the Sunday school the attendance was 415, as a result of an extra effort. It would have been larger but for the fact that many members are ill and others were kept at home to care for those physically unable to come.

Sunday morning the evangelist spoke on "The Miracle Motive" and in the evening on "The Profits of Religion." Tonight his theme will be "The Supremacy of Christ." Miss Eva Showman and Jesse Barnes last night sang, "Tis the Saviour Calling."

Tonight the Circle Quartet, composed of Mrs. John J. Enos, Mrs. C. D. Bailey, Miss Eva Showman and Miss Edna Harmon, will sing.

Tuesday night has been set aside as Men's Bible Class night, at which time the class which is taught by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Buckner, will attend in a body. Charles D. Bailey will be the soloist of the evening.

On Thursday evening the Martha Norton Bible Class, of which Mrs. J. L. Kurtz is teacher, will be present in a body. That night the special musical number will be a quartet composed of Mrs. Peter R. Weimer, Mrs. John J. Enos, Mrs. C. C. Buckner and Mrs. E. S. Marsh.

Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, there will be a general prayer service at the church, with the evangelist leading. Mr. Buckner will deliver a brief address. The entire service will be limited to one hour.

Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the Martha Norton Bible Class will meet at the home of Mrs. C. S. Foxe, Race street and Patterson Avenue, with Mrs. Price as hostess. Her address will be Mrs. C. N. Durnell, Mrs. Robert F. Lyle and Mrs. Robert L. Werner. Entertainment numbers for the occasion will be a duet by Mrs. C. D. Bailey and Miss Eva Showman, a vocal solo by Mrs. Ross F. Lyle and a piano solo by Mrs. P. H. Belgrave. The members will save dollars for one of the Christian homes. Mrs. Robert Norton will be in charge of this work.

There will be a nursery tonight for the care of babies of mothers who want to attend services.

Hundreds Greet Bishop Boyle on First Visit Here

The parochial hall was packed Sunday afternoon by hundreds of Catholics of this city and vicinity who gathered to hear Bishop Hugh Boyle of the Pittsburgh Diocese address the Immaculate Conception Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. The bishop was making his first official visit to this city and included among his hearers were about 15 priests from various points in this section.

The bishop gave a talk that aroused much enthusiasm in the work of the confraternity. It clearly set forth the aims and purposes of the organization, which is missionary. The local confraternity has been doing a big work among the coke plants of this section. This was shown in the annual report read by the president, John J. Brady.

The confraternity is composed of lay members of the congregation whose duty it is to teach the children in outside places.

Bishop demanded that he be given a hearing and Wednesday evening was fixed for that purpose.

New Ireland Will Strive for Democracy in Fullest Sense

Irishmen Will Pay Tribute to a Man's Spiritual and Intellectual Qualities, Not the Size of His Bank Balance; Will Abolish Religious Distinctions of All Kinds; First Country to Disarm.

By SHAW DESMOND
Copyright, 1922 by The Courier Newspaper Syndicate.

PART II

"Spiritual Democracy."

It is not generally realized that the Gael, aristocrat though he is, and paying willing fealty to leadership, is really also the world's most convinced democrat, because his democracy has always been part of his daily life and not merely a "lip democracy." With the passing of the "landed gentry" there will also pass that feudal concept of master and man which in the past had hurt Ireland so much. Instead, we are going to see the world's first experiment in what I have called "spiritual democracy," for the future Ireland will have no commerce with Socialism. That is, a democracy in which there will be no two men on the planet ate the same, but one in which the principle of "spiritual aristocracy" will be the guiding and inspirational principle.

In a word, we are about to see in the future Ireland an epoch-making experiment in democracy which will pay tribute only to a man's spiritual and intellectual quality rather than to his financial quality. The bank balances will not be the test of merit in the Ireland that is coming. I make this assertion with all the more confidence in that I have heard statements along these lines from men so widely separated as cooperators like "A. L." writers like James Stephens, and labor leaders of the type of Thomas Foran, president of the Irish Transport Workers, and the Larkeens.

Educationally, the Ireland of the future in the first days will see the Presbyterian clergymen and, to a lesser extent, the Catholic priest as "managers" of the schools of the north and south, respectively. Then, within 10 years, we shall see the growing trinitarianization of Catholic and Protestant in business and in the comradeship which comes from the building up of a country, lead to having Catholic and Protestant sitting together on the same benches in the schools of the nation. And here I am in a position to make the following statement:

There is not a single leading Catholic Sinn Feiner of my acquaintance who does not devoutly and entirely wish to see all religious distinction of any kind whatever abolished not only in the national schools, but throughout the future Ireland generally. Only one thing may stand in the way of this, and that is the question of "religious instruction." But this could be given to the separate religions in separate rooms. Educational unity in the future Ireland is only a question of time. The new generation of Ulster Irishmen no longer nurtured in an atmosphere of political hostility, will not again feel themselves separate from Ire and, but fervent children of a to the mother.

In the future Ireland there will be absolutely no attempt to prevent the friction of one religion by the other. The process is simple. They never have been such propagandists as we are well known to be. It is open to the entire that my forecast about educational unity, etc., will be realized. I have spoken to Catholic clerics, from bishops to curates, and they all declared that no religious propaganda would be used in the Ireland that is coming.

The Catholic and Protestant "areas" in counties like Tyrone, Fermanagh, etc., will in the coming Ireland eventually cease to exist as religious "spheres" of influence. Already Catholic and Protestant often fraternize in the north. Tomorrow, with the increased intercourse coming in a United Ireland, the "religious question" even to the incidental extent that it has existed, will cease to be. The man, Catholic or Protestant, who resides in tomorrow's Ireland will be frankly regarded as not quite decent. Tomorrow's Ireland will have no use for the religious fanatic. These gentlemen are going to lose their jobs.

Ireland to Dismantle!

Ireland will be the first country in Europe to dismantle!

Thus statement, as so many others, will be hotly contested by those who have never really grasped the root-fact of the Irish problem—that is, the fact, although oft unconscious, in spiritual rather than physical force. This has never been epitomized more clearly than in the recent statement of Chief of Staff McNeilly in the Dual that force is useless and the implication that Ireland had only her spiritual power upon which to depend.

Ireland will dismantle and will say to the world: "Here Ireland stands, open to the nations of the earth, if they are so cowardly as to hurt her. Erin welcomes all nations to her shores as friends and trusts in the spiritual strength which has always been hers for her defense."

(The End.)

"Found him," she answered, putting her hand on the little animal. "Then he isn't yours," he retorted. "And he can't be anybody's but mine. I thought I was missing some lambs."

Polly's eyes filled with alarm. She was trying to frame an argument in favor of herself and the creature she loved.

"When you find a thing dyin' in a storm, Oscar," she faltered at length, "you can take him home an' love him, now can't you?"

The man's loud guffaw brought a deep flush to the girl's face. She placed herself directly between him and the lamb.

"He's mine," she insisted. "He'd known sure if I hadn't jumped into the ditch an' pulled him out."

Her words made the farmer certain where the creature came from.

"Dead or alive, he's mine!" he exclaimed.

Besides, covering the lamb, he harshed the squat girl's way of troubling animals. When he got her, he determined he would take all of that kind of nonsense out of her.

With one sweep of his mighty hand, he thrust her aside, and whipping out his knife, he cut the rope, that held Nanny Hopkins to Polly's arm. Then, in spite of the girl's frantic cries and her desperate fighting against it, Oscar picked up the lamb.

Polly screamed frantically, for from the look on his evil face, she saw instantly what he intended to do. He was going to kill Nanny! Again she saw a him, but he was tall and strong and held the lamb aloft in the air, high out of her reach. With a rough push he pushed the girl from him so roughly that she fell. When Polly scrambled up, he had the lamb in one hand and a large stone in the other.

"Oscar!" she shrieked.

She dropped to her knees, clasped her Jerry in her arms, and shrouded his face and her own in her curls. When she dared look up again, Oscar had dropped the dead lamb on the ground.

"There," he gritted, "that's to teach you a lesson, Miss Polly Hopkins. And now I'll open your eyes to something else."

As he crossed to her, he tried to strangle her feet; but her legs were weak, and she was sick over the quivering body there in the road. In another minute Oscar had snatched her into his arms.

She shrieked again and again; and Jerry's loud cries followed as she fought desperately with the burly farmer.

Once out of sight of the Red Cross poster and the little group in front of it, Percival checked his horse. Bay Dexter shook his head and stamped his bit in disapproval. He was accustomed to mad, harum-scarum gallops, and he loved them; but this morning, especially since the pause by the fence corner, he had been compelled to jog along like a worn-out, old nag.

His master was thinking, really and seriously thinking. Happily born and the heir to an immense fortune, his way through life, so far had been marked out for him. He had gone to war carelessly, in a mood of hot patriotism and because it was the thing to do. Over there he had done his share and gained, especially from his French comrades, an inkling of life's vital purpose. He had decided that, when he returned, he would do something worth while, something to make the world a little better, because he had lived in it.

Now he was home; and almost the first day had come to him this appeal.

He smiled ruefully at the recollection of Polly's plea. He had promised to help the squatters, and he meant to do it. Suppose it did bring him into conflict with Marcus MacKenzie! He knew how to fight, and a good fight was not bad fun.

Faintly from the direction he had ridden, the sound of cries came to his ears. Idly he wondered what the row was. Some squat man disdaining his wife, he decided; but he could not stand to have a woman beaten!

He vaulted into the saddle and raced back over the road. It was long before he located the place where the screams came from. Then Bay Dexter had an opportunity to show all the speed he had.

The sight of Polly writhing in the strong arms of a man he did not recognize made Percival see red. He was off his horse with one leap, and two long strides took him to Oscar's side.

One blow from his powerful knuckles to the farmer's face staggered Bennett and freed Polly so quickly that she crawled out of the way of the bantling men. The blow that had released her had done no damage to Bennett except to aggravate his rage. He recovered himself and confronted his assailant, dripping with the raw fluid of his stomach and bowels without gripping or upsetting the child.

closed the door and barred it if a man's heavy boot, thrust across the threshold, had not prevented her.

There in his riding clothes, haggard and frowning, stood Marcus MacKenzie.

Bennett went by. Again and again

Bennett tried to come to those quarters. But he could not; neither could he hit his elusive opponent. At length he hesitated, distressed as much by his own efforts as the blows he had received.

Then Percival stepped in, and quickly it was all over. Two well-planted thumps laid Bennett like a log on the ground.

Robert dusted off his hands, picked up Jerry, and handed him to his sister.

"Did he hurt you, Polly?" he queried, and her answer was positively gleeful: "Navy a bit, sir, an' I reckon the big Jummock's got a plenty this time."

Robert brushed off his clothes slowly. The farmer still lay on the ground.

"Get up," ordered Percival scowling, touching the prostrate man with the toe of his boot. "Get up and make off if you don't want me to kick you again."

Oscar rolled over and crawled slowly to his hands and knees.

"This is a rotten hole," spat out MacKenzie presently, looking at the girl.

This scornful comment on the quarters Daddy Hopkins worked so hard to support touched the squat girl to the quick. She kept the hut as clean as broom and lake water could make it.

"It's our home, master; all we got," she replied, and she straightened her shoulders with dignity.

"Pardon, just the same," repeated Marcus. "Say, you! Come and stand here before me!"

He touched a spot on the floor with his riding whip; and Polly stepped upon it.

its troubles of various sorts, and eventually a grandiloquent break of which Miss Vincent, portrayed by Miss Fredrick, is blithely the victim. Her father dies as the result of the shock incident to the scandal and the daughter, frightened by the wife's excesses, goes off to the South Seas, virtually an exile from society.

THE ORPHANUM.

Just how much of a man's success he owes to his wife, is the question which is treated in a most pleasing way in William DeMille's latest Paramount picture, "What Every Woman Knows," at the Orpheum today, Tuesday and Wednesday. This picture, which is based on Sir James M. Barrie's noted play of the same title, is excellent in every respect. The role of Maggie Wynd, the quaint, practical and true-blue wife, is delightfully interpreted by Lois Wilson, who plays the part like a glove. Conrad Nagel is a typical John Shand, the young, ambitious politician, and Charles Ogle, Fred Huntley and Guy Oliver play Alice, David and James White. The story portrays how a young politician wins fame and glory by his excellent speeches which his wife has aided him in writing. On the eve of his greatest speech, he falls in love with another woman and drifts from his wife. Then comes a most delightful climax.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON

Viola Dana will be seen in a new picture, "Puppets of Fate," at the Soisson Theatre today and Tuesday afternoon only.

This story off an Italian beauty whose tragic experience touches the heartstrings and compels interest, is an exceptionally one. Viola Dana plays the stellar role of Sozentina Palombra, the exquisite Sozentina donna, who pines in her cracked old palazzo, while her husband, Gabriel, dissipates in America, whether he has gone to win his fortune. Sozentina comes to New York to find Gabriel now a successful gambler, in the clutches of an adventuress, who has made him marry her. The abandoned wife comes with her man-about-town.

Unexpectedly starting in the thrilling denouement of the picture,

This Metro "special" is an original screen story by the novelist and short-story writer, Louis B. Untermeyer, and Sidney Lillian executed the art designs. The adaptation is by Ruth Ann Baldwin and Molly Parrot.

For her supporting cast, Miss Dana names Francis McDonald, Jackie Saunders, Fred Kelsey, Thomas Ricketts and Edward Kennedy.

THE PARAMOUNT.

As the charming daughter of a rear admiral, who because of a series of tragic events becomes the exotic and mysterious owner of an inn in the South Seas, Paulette Frederick has one of the greatest roles of her career in "The Lair of Jade," at the Paramount today and Tuesday. That Miss Frederick is one of the tea-leaf big personalities of the screen and the stage, too, is established beyond question by her brilliant performance in "The Lair of Jade." At the outset Miss Frederick is the daughter of Rear Admiral Vincent and one of the most popular young women at the naval base, while her father is stationed, life there, however, has its frictions, and she could even hurt it, any more. But there were her people...

"Just help! Daddy! Hopkins!" she cried, and the sound of cries came to his ears. Idly he wondered what the row was. Some squat man disdaining his wife, he decided; but he could not stand to have a woman beaten!

He vaulted into the saddle and raced back over the road. It was long before he located the place where the screams came from. Then Bay Dexter had an opportunity to show all the speed he had.

High School Loses Fast Game to Johnstown; First League Contest Tonight

Cokers Are Outpointed in Final Minutes of Play; Score 37-33.

C. H. S. GIRLS WINNERS

By James M. Driscoll, Sporting Editor.

Three hard games within a week proved a little bit too much for the Connellsville High School basketball team. Finishing out the third game Saturday night with a strong aggregation, like Johnstown, taxed the strength of the local losers to the limit and the visitors made the winning points in the last minute of play. The locals tried desperately to close the game and for the first time in five games lost a contest on the home floor. The final result was 37-33.

The visitors made the whirling twists in the final minute of play. Just that moment the game was another one of those Saturday night thrillers which have become epidemic at the high school and the battle was raging back and forth with little favor on either side.

Connellsville had the lead for a time in the second quarter but steady foul shooting on the part of Davies kept the team in the game and the period ended with the teams even 12-12.

The final score, more than double that at the half way mark, indicates the additional spirit displayed by both aggregations in the last two quarters, again and again Johnstown sprang ahead, only to have the Cokers, who fought with dogged tenacity, buoyed up by their fine play and with knowledge that only consistent fighting would bring them out near the top.

After missing a half dozen attempts McCormick managed to get a couple of his long shots in. They seemed to give the locals new hope and the team got together again. Then the fans were on their feet. Connellsville had stepped into the lead and the score stood at 31-29. There were still several minutes to play and the teams never slackened. Referee Wall called fouls closely and neither free goal shooter was missing many opportunities although Davies had the edge on Connellsville.

Johnstown finally got a two-point lead, then Soisson made a foul. The flood City lads got another field goal and two more foul goals which gave them a big margin. Soisson made another successful try for goal and the game was over.

The line-up: Connellsville-33 Johnstown-37

Johnson F. Tremellen

Harmon F. Davies

Lowery C. Johnson

LaRe G. Burkland

Welsh G. Katzenstein

Substitutions—McCormick for Harmon, Nixon for Welsh, Welsh for LaRe, O'Connor for Johnson.

Foul goals—Davies, 17 out of 21; Connellsville, 19 out of 25.

Referee—Wall.

The attending crowd Saturday night was the largest of the season. Attendance each week-end is increasing.

Remember the first City League game opens at 7:45 o'clock this evening.

First Clashes In New League Here Tonight

By James M. Driscoll,

Sporting Editor.

The first games in the new City League, made up of the eight best teams in this section of the coke region, will be played tonight at the Pocahontas Hall. The first clash will be between the Unity Fraternity and Casey Club and the second will feature the Captain's Glass outfit and Trotter. Two better games for the opening night could not have been arranged.

The Unity Frat-Casey clash has been a long talked of affair. As each team plays the other only once during the league season tonight's clash will be the only one between the two teams and supporters of both sides will be out in numbers.

The Captain-Trotter clash will bring forth something unexpected. This is almost a certainty. Captain's Glass, the laughing stock of the basketball world early this season has suddenly sprung into the limelight as a winner. The glass blowers have defeated the Baltimore & Ohio Clerks, the Baptists, the Fort Pitt "Tigers" and the Point Marion Eagles in succession, the last game being won Saturday night at Point Marion. Trotter is no slow outfit and the game will be well worth seeing.

The opening contest will begin at 7:45 o'clock. This is necessary in order to run the second game off during the evening without holding the crowd too long.

Coker Lassies Defeat Quintet At West Newton

The Connellsville High School girls kept their basketball record for this season clean when they defeated the West Newton girls by a 19-12 score at the down river town on Saturday. The girls have won every game played this season by a comfortable margin and if they keep up their work they will be in a position to claim the championship in their class.

The score: Connellsville-19 West Newton-12

Gurian F. Fries

Struble F. Moody

F. Buttermore C. Gaal

M. Buttermore G. Kelly

Ladig G. Gaffey

Field goals—F. Buttermore, 4.

Struble, 3, Moody, 3, Gaal, 2, Guyan.

Foul goals—Gurian, 3 out of 5; Struble, 1 out of 2; Moody, 2 out of 8.

Referee—Gochring.

Captain Wins Over Pt. Marion Eagles, 16-14

SOUTH CONNELLSVILLE, Feb. 13. The Captain basketball team turned the tables Saturday evening when it went to Point Marion and defeated the Point Marion Eagles by two points, 16-14. This was a surprise to many followers of the local team as they expected to hear of Captain getting snowed under.

The victory gave the Captain players more confidence in themselves that they can defeat Trotter this evening by a close margin when they clash in one of the first games to be played in the City League. Both of these teams claim victory.

Trotter, backing its claim by tying defeated Captain once and Captain asserting the first team did not play Trotter at that time, some of its members being ill.

Wednesday night Captain will meet Mount Pleasant on the Chipping floor.

This will be the first time that the Captain will have played a team from Mount Pleasant.

There is some talk of getting the Unity Fraternity to play the Captain team Friday evening.

PERRY TOWNSHIP DOWNS

WEST NEWTON QUINTET

The Perry Township High School basketball team defeated the West Newton quintet Friday evening in what is considered the greatest game ever played on the Perry floor.

The score was 39-8, the visitors being literally swamped. Lynn scored the only two field goals scored by his team.

The line-up: Perry Twp.—8.

West Newton—8.

Edwards J. Keller
